

Ohio River Valley Chapter

Document Management as a Key Driver for Mobility Solutions

The AIIM Ohio River Valley Chapter is pleased to announce a local chapter meeting on Tuesday, June 1, 2010. The event will be held at TBD. Matt Chretien from Intellinetics will be speaking, followed by lunch.

As both consumers and corporate employees move to mobile communication and computing environments, the technology and skills to manage mobile content is struggling to keep up with demand. Specifically, a high-growth area within the broader Mobility Solutions space is digital pen-based solutions. Digital pen based solutions are positioned for growth due to recent refinements in the underlying technologies needed to make these implementations practical. Several case studies will serve as the basis to review what pen solutions have to offer, when they should be considered, and what considerations from both a business and technology perspective should be considered.

Matt Chretien is the president of Intellinetics, a leading document management software company. Intellinetics' strategic focus is to serve clients whose solution needs are driven by cost of ownership, integration, scalability, ease-of-use and security. Matt will draw from his 16 years of experience in the document management industry as a context to share impactful ideas at this AIIM event.
